*Dear Friends and

The students at the School for Blind Children at Cooch Behar, India, were very happy, at last being able to return to the boarding school and physical lessons, meeting their teachers and classmates again, after the long pandemic lock-down.

Nine new students have started in the school this semester.

The new students learning, with the help of their fingers, to recognize the different letters of the Braille system.

One day the school organized a full day excursion to a playing ground.
